

Summer School on

China: A World Superpower - Myth or Reality?

Prague, Czech Republic, July 3-10, 2010

Early Bird Application Deadline: May 18, 2010

Final Deadline: June 4, 2010

Do you wonder whether China is a communist country or a capitalist authoritarian state?

Are you interested in discussing the various challenges that Beijing faces on the road to becoming a world superpower?

Would you like to learn about China from a leading expert in the field, London School of Economics Professor Christopher R Hughes?

Would you like to spend a week in one of Europe's most admired cities?

If your answer is 'yes', we encourage you to apply for "China: A World Superpower", a week-long summer school organized by the Center for Public Policy (www.cpvpcz.cz).

We welcome both undergraduate and graduate students of political science, international relations, history, journalism, economics, sociology or any other social sciences.

The program combines lectures, workshops & informal social interaction with other participants and takes place in Prague, the most fascinating capital of Central Europe.

Our website <http://china.cpvpcz.cz/> offers detailed information as well as an on-line application. You can also contact us at the following address:
